Nemesys Computer Consultants Offer Computer Security Advice

Computer users are becoming more and more concerned about information security. Users have to constantly be on their guard against attempts to lure them to give out their bank details, and businesses are under constant assault from the Internet, and find it difficult to be sure that their business information is secure.

To help Cambridge businesses to protect their data, Nemesys Computer Consultants Ltd – specialists in information security – are running another of their extremely popular 1-day Computer Security Surgeries. Anyone with a concern or question about computer security can come along and get advice from a professional security consultant, free of charge. Experts will be on hand to discuss issues such as encryption, web security, and how to tackle security pro-actively.

The surgery will take place on Tuesday 30th of November 2004, at the MWB Business Exchange in East Rd, Cambridge, from 9:00am to 5:30pm.
